

Space is defined as an area which is free, available or unoccupied.

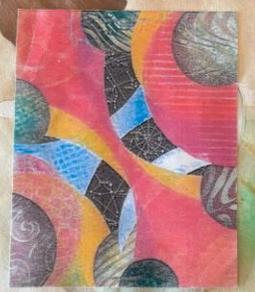

Depth looks at the distance between top and bottom.

architecture

Depth and SPACE

DEPTH AND SPACE

During this workshop we will be investigating and experimenting the use of depth and space within your artwork, which will have an urban theme.

Space is defined as an area which is free, available or unoccupied.

Depth looks at the distance between top and bottom.

This opens up so many exciting opportunities to be able to experiment with layers, depth and shadow. With this in mind we are going to embrace the techniques of several artists that take in to account exactly this whilst looking at the topic of architecture. We will take inspiration from several contemporary artists. Neil Macneil for his incredible use of hand embroidery, Jennifer Calmer for her use of paper and machine stitch, Joan Diaz for her use of construction, Rose Arnes for her layering of stitch and image, Dabbe Smyth for her unique take on thread art. We will also delve in to the artwork of Mety Sainsbury and Phil Meltz for their exquisite drawings. Your end result will be a feast of space, depth and layers... pure joy!

JENNIFER COLLIER

